My dear Mr. Noë:-

Thank you so very much for the nice catalogues you sent us. We have not yet decided on anything for an emblem and may not until next year. The girls like the out of the coin you attached to the catalogue but as their idea is mainly for a pin and you said that was strictly non-classical, what am I to do? They liked the head of wheat as an emblem and would that not work up in a copy in anyway that would be sufficiently beautiful to allow us to use it? We shall keep the catalogues, unless you wish to have them returned now, until we have reached some decision.

With pleasant recollections of a delightful lecture and a very short stay at our home and with cordial regards; in which my husband wishes to join me,

Sincerely yours,

Virginia B. Edwards.

Dear Mrs. Edwards:

Responding to yours of February 25th, there is no need to return the Catalogues.

Regarding the emblem for your Classical Club, the wheat ear makes an excellent design but might be thought to have an agricultural rather than a classical significance.

My thought in suggesting the Persephone head was that its appropriateness might appeal to students of a College of young girls.

I, too, have very pleasant recollections of my visit. I wish I might have been with you longer.

Sincerely yours,

Secretary
